

Lucton Bulletin

February 25th

It was an inauspicious start to the week, with the weather conditions making it very difficult for many to return to school on Monday. My thanks to our bus drivers for navigating the elements so well, as well as to all parents and students who were able to make the journey; I was particularly impressed that our Head Boy, Reubens, led by example by driving for well over an hour to make it in.

Thankfully, plenty has happened since to brighten up the week, not least of which was the outstanding Senior School production of 'Shakers & Bouncers' on Wednesday and Thursday. I know that a lot of hard work went into putting on our first play in quite some time, and well done to all cast, crew and staff involved for making it such a brilliant success.

As ever, there has been lots more going on too: some excellent sporting performances on Wednesday and Thursday; our Year 9 students have been busy deliberating over their GCSE choices; and our Prep School children have even been watching trampolining sheep and surfing dogs (I'll let them tell you more about that).

Next week promises more excitement, not least of which being our House Pancake Races. I'm still not entirely sure what those are, but I look forward to them nonetheless!

Updates & Reminders

GCSE options

Please note that GCSE options are due for Year 9 students on Monday 28th February.

AGM Dinner Postoned

Just a reminder that the OLA have sadly decided to postpone the AGM Dinner that was scheduled for Saturday 26th February due to ongoing concerns about Covid. They hope to reschedule for later in the year.

World Book Day

The ever-popular World Book Day returns on Thursday 3rd March. The whole-school event coincides with mufti day, for which we ask students for a charitable donation of £2. However, for those that would like to enter into the spirit and dress as their favourite literary character, the donation will be reduced to £1.

Boarding News

It's been lovely to welcome everyone back to the boarding house, and it seems that everyone enjoyed a restful break and were not too battered by the stormy weather! The boarding house remained open for several of our overseas boarders for half term, and we all had a good time making the most of some time off.

Mr Rogers kicked things off with a slap-up Sunday roast at the weekend before we all went to Shrewsbury on Monday for a spot of shopping and lunch.

Thursday evening saw us travel to the cinema, where we watched "Uncharted", which was lots of fun, before rounding off the week with a trip to Hereford and Sunday brunch. In between, students managed to fit in a few much-needed lie-ins, and even some school work, so it was a successful week!

I'm pleased to announce that we will be able offering our "Friends Friday" trips and sleepovers once again, so please do email me at boardinghouse@luctonschool.org if your son or daughter would like to experience the boarding house- we would love them to come and stay!
