

Lucton Bulletin

March 18th
2022

It was good to celebrate British Science Week with the 'Great Egg Drop' on Monday, with lots of fantastic entries from our talented students (and, I suspect in some cases, their talented parents).

We have followed that up with the usual array of trips, sport and competitions. I was delighted to be able to award certificates for the 2022 Chemistry Olympiad to four able scientists, with Rebecca, Alex and Hershel earning bronze awards, and Matthew doing particularly well to be awarded silver.

It was also brilliant to hear of our students' success in their LAMDA exams. From Year 2 to Year 13, all students passed, and nearly all with distinction. A tremendous achievement and my congratulations to all students involved (and of course their teachers).

Next week promises to be a busy one and I hope to see many of you at our Middle School Enterprise Showcase on Thursday, which I know our students have been working hard for.

Boarding News

Last Friday night saw the return of some familiar guests back to boarding with many taking up the opportunities offered by "Friends Fridays", tempted by this weekend's trip to "Ninja Warriors".

Students were treated to a Friday night dinner of various curries and fancy rices, which went down well with all of the boarders. After this, the senior students in Croft House took up the chance to go and resupply at Morrisons, whilst School Cottage students enjoyed playing football in the sports hall.

Saturday saw the boarders try their hand at the Ninja Warrior assault course in Gloucester. The students battled against tests of balance, strength and agility, with all seeming to enjoy their time on the course, particularly Miss Wilkinson and Mr Goodchild, keen to show off their sporting prowess! After this, the students were rewarded with the opportunity to refuel on southern fried chicken, which they all readily embraced. The evening saw a gentle wind down, with lots of socialising and relaxing in the common areas.

Sunday was a more relaxed day on site, with students making the most of late brunch and school facilities. The evening saw a return to the normal school routine, with prep completed and houses organised. A lovely weekend, all round!
